of the State.

The above table embraces neatly all the places in which it ere has been any great the place. Most of the returns from country towns where the decrease has been, on the other hand, are yet to come in. Nearly every estimate as yet made, of the total increase of the State, probably exceeds the total increase of the State, probably exceeds the tot. It will be or expectedly small.

Events to not happen without causes, and there are causes for this slackening of the progress of the Empire State.

The decrease of agricultural population in an old country is natural and to be expected. Fewer hands are required to cultivate lard than to clear and drain and dit is for cultivation, and fewer men are required as invention multiplies machines. But in a State like New York, which has still so much excellant lated in the aw. mp and forest, these causes are not alone a collectent to account for it.

California, Wisconsin, and Iowa have been steadily crewing off thrusands from our farms. In the meantime a senseless and bigoted crusade against emigrat is arrived here from abroad has prevented their filling the vacant places, and driven them to seek more despitable homes classifier. We may thank Krow Nothingism in no small degree that the atteam of emigration flows steadily through New York, carrying with it so many of the strong, the willing and able, while leaving behind it, of course, the diseased, the poverty stricken and the crimical.

been, and defendant therefore had a right to solid as such.

Mr. Hull next addressed the jury. He said, no mat ter whether the law war moconstitutional or not, they were beend to obey it as long as it remained upon the statute book, until declared unconstitutional by the proper tribunal. He said that they not proven the articla sold to be gin; no matter it Holland gin, as contended by opposite counsel, he was still lable for selling it without the proper hecase. The mers selling of schnaps in labelled bottles was an evasion of the law.

The Justice then charged the jury. They were the saic) the judges of the law, and must decide upon its constitutionally. He then reviewed the testimony and applair of the law; and plainly instructed the jury that they had the right to decide the law constitutional or the contray. The jury, however, retired under those instructions, and deliberated about an hour, when they brought in-a verdict of "net guilty."

THE LAW IN ULSTER COUNTY.

THE LAW IN ULSTER COUNTY. TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

I will present to you a copy for publication of the proceedings of quite an important suit brought before S. Barlow, one of the Justices of the Peace of Edenwell, in Berlow, one of the Justices of the Frace of Hierwell, in the town of Wawassing, and county of Ulster, as. This suit was brought in behalf of the people against one William Scott, for selling inforcating liquers on the 11th day of July, 1846. The District Attorney was Whiem Scott, for selling intoricating liquors on the lith day of July, 1886. The District Attorney was counsel for the people, and Nicholas R. Graham for the defendant. The evidences was short and quist clear that the defendant had sold one glass of good Hollam g., Telendant's counsel admitted that they had sold may red diquors, and claimed that they had a right a tode; but there was no law to prevent the sales of imported liquors either in or out of the original packages. The centify we ide opinion to the jury as follows, via:—

Gentlemenofthe jury, if you believe from the evidence the liquors rold by defendant were imported liquors then you should acquit the privoner. And if you do not believe the liquors sold by defendant were imported, then you should find the prisoner guilly. This charge to the jury ass given by the court on the 18th Instant. It seems to corn, pond with the views of Recorder Smith, given on the same, ay. Whether Judge Barlow had any appritual communication with Smith or not, we are not able to say. This was, long protracted suit, commencing on the 18th inst. and ending on the 18th. The plantiff become were not with it and abandoned the suit. One hundred jurymen were summoned; in all most of them had expressed some option, or were prejudiced in some way, and were excepted by the court. Two other suits came belore Justice Berilow, for selling printinous liquors in the Marseppa Hotel. The Proof was, as in the flust case, proven that the defendant had sold imported liquors. After a thorough investigation, they were discharged by the court. The verdict was given that the Celendants were not guilty of any violation of any law of the State of New York. Jerume Batsford has been complained of for selling interlicing liquors, believe John P. In with Justice of the said year to the plantiff the property of the said year. Court of Common Pleas. 1MTERIANT OPINION AS TO CONSTABLES' BONDS.

Davis agt. Haffier.—Woodbury J.—This was an action brouge in the court below against Crass. W. Kinger, one of the constables of the city of New York, and Heffier as his surety, to recover some $250, on account of the omission of Kinger to return an execution delivered to him. This court held that the plaintiff could not recover against the surety until after a judgment had been obtained against the constables and leave to prosecute the surety bad been granted by the Court of Common Pleas. That the act revising our statutes, 1813, in relation to certables in the various towns in the courtry, does not apply to this city. That the act to reduce reveral laws relating to the city of New York, (2 iev. laws, 342; sec. 147) provides aspecially for the bonds to be executed by constables in the city of New York, viz: "It shall be given to the Mayor, Aldermen and Commonalty, &c., in the penal sum of $500, shall be delivered to the Mayor, who shall judge and determine the compstency of the sareties, and lie the bond with the Cark of the city of New York; and upon recovery thereon by say person aggraved, it shall be lawful for the judge of judges of the Mayor's Court, (for this purpose the Court of Common Pleas), upon motion in open court, and upon the sum of such motion, to order the bend to be put in suit."

  The bond upon which the present motion is brought is framed in accordance with section 21 of the statute relating to towas, above referred to. (I Rev. Stat., 346.) It is a bond to the peeple, and not to the Mayor, &c., of New York; it is approved by a supervisor, and not by the Mayor; it is in the rum of $1,900, and not of $500. It is not, therefore, the bond required by the act relating to this city, and cao, therefore, find no support as a statutery security. No action will lie apain at the centempistes a recovery when had to be in the name of the Mayor, &c., for the full amount of the peralty, so that a levy can b

THREE DAMS CARRIED AWAY—NARROW ESCAPES.

[From the Albany Journal, July 22.]

The recent heavy rains had swolien the creek at Clerksyllle, about fourteen miles from this city, much beyond its exall size; and yesterday Bentest's mill dam, about two miles above the village, gave way. The stream came rushing down, carrying devastation in its train. It destroyed Jona's aswmill, which stood a short distance below, and that dam also giving way before it, he wolume was acted to the torrett. It then swe, towards Clarkeville, spreading over the fields, prowrating grain and awapping away outbuildings. Tempora if y checked by the Turopike bridge, it deshed up against the gate house, swept away part of it, and asung the remainder round on its foundation. The Stekesper's wife and children were in the house at the time, and were rescued with some difficulty from the upper windows.

The fibed then rushed down into Clarkeville, and entered the heart of the village like a wall ten feet bigh, surmounted by say logs, tons of hay, grain and other matter. It knocked the stone foundation out from ut der G. Log's house, and injured several others, and dashed completely over the roof of summen's blacksmith shop. A woman in the house acquired a several others, and chabed completely over the roof of summen's blacksmith shop. A woman in the house Destructive Freshet in New Scotland.

up stairs, leaving the outer door open, through which the water entered the house and swept the furniture before it. The heavy boulders of a stone fance were carried off by it like so many feathers, and a garden had the soil and everything growing on it completely washed out of the rock on which it rested. Bennett's grist mill dam, in the village, withstood the pressure a short time and then gave away, which probably saved the mill itself. Then with again renewed force it swept off two bridges and tore away much of the plank road. Wany persons narrowly escaped drowning, while others, who saw them, and even within a stone's throw, were unable to reach or assist them. What damage the water did below the third dam we do not learn, but probably this was the worst of it. The loss is estimated to be at least $20,000.

were made yesterday, that we heard of. Mrs. sutherland exhibited a sore thumb in proof of the violence used upon her.

There is no end of the wonderful stories circulated about this woman among the negroes and poor for igness of the Thrid district. It is said that a Dutchman who undertook to enter her shalty, was transfixed like a statue by a motion of har finger; that another got his foot glued to the doorsall, by some invisible sget oy, and was utterly unable to get it, locae; that the ha ds of her clock moved the wrong way, and struck the hours backwards; that the bed, tables, and chairs, were jumping about all the lime, as if inhabited by svil spirits. The story started by a police efficer, that the witch turned into a cat and escaped, leaving a human skin behind, has gained large ordence with the Legroes, particularly those who believe in the mysteries of Queen Vondun. A yellow girl was told that the Recorder got a terrible shaking in one of his hards, by juiting it upon the witch, and that the saking wouldn't stop. The stary spread, and a regro woman called at the office to inquire about it. The clerk gravely told her that it was a fact, and referred her to the Recorder's brother, who con timed it with a melancholy shake of the head. "Good Lord, won't ye save us!" she ejaculated, as she left, with rolling eyes. Several commonthed persons, who wished to see the entry of the witch's arrest in the police book, were shown a blank space on one of the parces, and gravely informed, that prec'tely at twelve o'clock on Monday night, when the witch turned into a cat and escaped, all records of her arrest vanished magically from the book! As may be inferred from the above, the poirse are having their own fun in the matter. Altogether the sfielr has been a pleasant relief to the sammer duliness in the Old Third.
